Essay on How

Rarity Comes

Before Beauty

There were two crates on the express platform when Paul Jones and I rolled up to the Missouri Pacific depot early yesterday afternoon.

One crate was built like a battleship. It had to be. The label said it contained one live baby hippopotamus, gross weight 650 pounds, value $3,000. Mr. Hippo was there all right — wide as two hogs, stupid, and unbeautiful as sin.

Now the other crate looked no more substantial than one you'd use to ship a good-sized dog in — only taller than a dog crate. It was labeled: Baby kangaroo, value $250. And Mr. Kangaroo was there, too — a beautiful animal with an intelligent pair of eyes.

Three thousand bucks for the stupid and ugly one — and only a couple of hundred for grace and beauty.

Right there, Mister, you have a business yardstick. And you don't have to go into the actual business of buying wild animals in Washington, D. C., and shipping them out to Miller Brothers' Circus at Hugo, Okla., to apply that yardstick — it'll measure domestic animals, commodities, real estate, brains, good luck, or what-have-you. . .any time anywhere.

The business principle that's just been disclosed by the price tags on those two express crates is this:

Rarity is more valuable than beauty.

It would be swell if rarity and beauty were combined, and usefulness thrown in for good measure so that would be a package beyond price. But it seldom happens that way. Gold, because it's rare, spells wealth. Many of the beautiful things of the earth are relatively cheap. And the most useful single item sells for a dime — a can-opener.

Mr. Hippopotamus comes high because he's a scarce baby, and, like an elephant, a long time in the raising. That he's ugly as the devil makes no difference.

But Mr. Kangaroo is the Australian equivalent of a Texas jack-rabbit. Population is his middle name. So it makes no difference what he looks like, either.

That is, if you are thinking strictly of trade and commerce.

Mr. Jones and I weren't . . . when we rolled up to those two crates yesterday. And I see Jones put it just like it was, in the last paragraph of yesterday's news-story.

"Quite The Kangaroo is valued at only $250 — but confidentially, it is a lot the cutest Unquote.

Jurisdiction Big Issue in Street Case

The question of jurisdiction is being studied in Hempstead Chancery Court today in Miss Lillie Middlebrooks' suit against the city of Hope in connection with the widening of 12th street from Main to Walnut.

Judge Steel, asked to issue a restraining order against the city, is hearing witnesses in the case to decide whether it comes under his jurisdiction before issuing the order.

Unless some specific discrimination can be shown in all probability the case will be carried to Circuit Court where the city of Hope already has a condemnation suit filed.

Witnesses were being heard, Miss Middlebrooks, Circuit Clerk Omera Evans and C. O. Thomas testified this morning and others involved in the case were scheduled to be heard during the afternoon session.

Miss Middlebrooks testified that she had owned the property in question for more than 26 years and contended widening the street was not necessary. She pointed to various other streets in the city, including 9th from Main to Walnut which is narrower than the street in question. She also contended that the street already had taken in 14 feet of her property.

She also testified that she was perfectly willing to give up 7 feet and that 7 feet was taken on both sides of the street.

Miss Middlebrooks' case is being presented by Albert G. Graves of Graves & Graves, and City Attorney John P. Vesey is in charge of the city's case, aided by W. S. Atkins.

HERE'S MAN WITH FLYING DISC — Dr. E. W. Kay, of Glendale, Calif., demonstrates his model flying disc which he believes will revolutionize aviation. His 41-inch, 20-lb. test model gets off the ground and spins in a 36-foot circle at 72 miles an hour. Vanes on the disc's rim open by centrifugal force when the disc rotates, making it act like a helicopter. At altitude the vanes are closed and it soars away like a spinning top. Shelled U. S. Ship Is Patched Up

Aboard The Flying Arrow, Jan. 11 — (P) — Crewmen patched up this shell-crapped American freighter today enough to permit her to limp to the nearest port.

But Capt. David Jones of Chicago, gear master, said he did not yet know where he would take her — Shanghai, her original destination, or elsewhere.

A Chinese nationalist gunboat shot her full of holes Monday and crippled her steering gear. (Nationalist spokesmen said the shooting was to keep her out of mine fields on the approaches to Shanghai.)

Observers said yesterday congress probably will not take it up until next month. They hope to have it on the way to the White House by April 1.

The bill, which authorizes various waterways project — it does not appropriate any funds — was passed by the house last summer. It was up before the senate just before it adjourned in October. Some amendments to the proposal have been approved by the senate.

Arkansas projects in the bill include:

• A defense in navigation portion of Arkansas river development plan, $39,000,000; nine-foot channel for the Ouachita river in Arkansas and Louisiana, $36,950,000; St. Francis river flood control, $20,000,000; Cache river flood control, $10,000,000; flood control portion of Arkansas river plan, $15,000,000.

• Two American destroyers have offered to escort the Flying Arrow to any port except Shanghai.

The destroyers — Stickell and Baussell — have stuck by her side since their arrival yesterday afternoon. During daylight hours they never strayed more than 200 yards from her side.

A steering apparatus that will enable the ship to be steered from the bridge was rigged up today.

Electric cables, torn by shell fire, also were fixed.

First Engineer Wilbur Gift of Natick, Conn., filled four shell holes in the No. 5 hold where a fire raged during the shelling Monday. The Flying Arrow took between 30 and 40 hits.

Captain Jones said the ship could be moved to the nearest port without danger to her 12 passengers, 43 crewmen and $10,000,000 cargo.

Arkansas Has Big Stake in Waterways Bill

Washington, Jan. 11 (P) — The Senate hasn't had a chance in this session to start the ball rolling on the omnibus waterways bill; when it does come quick action can be expected.

Buckers of the bill in which Arkansas has a $212,380,000 stake had hoped to have some action on the measure soon after Congress reconvened Jan. 3. These hopes were dashed, however, when the controversial oleo tax and FEPC bills bobbed up. Debates on the two matters has delayed all other action in the senate.

The mother was quoted by police as saying she tried to give the pair some milk and chocolate, that they refused it, so she gave the food to a cat.

Authorities said so long after the boy's death was that an exhaustive investigation, involving reports of social agencies, had been conducted.

The boy was quoted as saying he knew his wife was not feeding the pair properly, but that he could do nothing about it. For two months before the boy died, police quoted him, he could not bear to go into the bedroom where the two lay starving.

Police said the two children, their bodies emaciated and covered with vermin and sores, were found in a filthy, sunless bedroom of the Scielzo apartment last Nov. 21 by a welfare investigator.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said the children "wasted away before their parents' eyes" but the parents made no effort to get help.

Lewis Orders

Miners Back on 3-Day Week

Pittsburgh, Jan. 11 — (P) — The United Mine Workers' checkerboard strike strategy has more than 66,000 soft coal diggers idle today.

In the past 24 hours nearly 20,000 more quit work. But several other mines strike-bound since the first of the week have been allowed to resume operations.

Miners idle by states are: Pennsylvania, 32,650; West Virginia, 17,500; Alabama, 6,000; Kentucky 5,000; Ohio, 4,000; Utah, 900 and Virginia, 250.

Spokesmen for the coal industry say the here-today, gone-tomorrow strikes are just another attempt by UMW President John L. Lewis to needle the operators into signing a contract.

Nobody knows which mines will be struck next, or how long those pits that are now empty will remain struck. Except, perhaps, the player who's master-minding this charade.

In Illinois, 16,000 miners who went on strike last week promptly returned to work Monday as diggers began walking out in seven other states.

In Southwest Virginia 2,250 miners who struck at seven mines of the Clinchfield Coal corporation Monday returned to work yesterday. As they trooped back to work, 900 men at the Bethlehem Collieries corporation mine at Barrackville, W. Va., walked off the job.

UMW officials refuse to discuss the strike. John P. Busarello, UMW district president for the Pittsburgh area, at first denied knowledge of any walkout order, then, with the strike in full flower, declared:

"I'm just not talking."

At present, about one-sixth of the nation's soft coal miners are idle. No nationwide walkout is expected. That might create just the emergency needed for government intervention.

From a production angle, the strike is now costing the nation about four million tons of coal a day. In Washington, senators pored over means to legislate away some of Lewis' power.

Ten senators sent a report to the Senate judiciary committee saying a bill forbidding labor to monopolize control of industry would stop the "usurpation and abuse of power" by Lewis' recent three-day work week decree.

Judging by usual practice, however, a judiciary committee study of the situation would involve hearings and take much time before resulting recommendations to the senate.

McGrath Hints Compromise in A&P Suit

Washington, Jan. 11 — (P) — Attorney General McGrath has pointed out a possible route to a compromise of the government's anti-trust suit against the Atlantic and Pacific grocery chain.

McGrath commented on the case in a formal statement yesterday following published reports that the Justice Department might not insist upon going to court, if it can get a consent judgment ceding company practices which it challenges.

McGrath avoided any direct reference to such a concession. However, the statement issued by his office said that "it is the policy of the department of justice to discuss settlement of any anti-trust case with any defendant, and that if the A. & P. desires to enter into a consent judgment granting the type of relief the government is seeking in this case, he (McGrath) will consider it."

McGrath's speech Monday before the National Retail Dry Goods Association in New York concluded that the suit was brought solely "to restore fair competition" in business.

Indications that the three, Sup. George W. Jackson, Dr. W. G. Jenkins and J. D. Hannah, would appear were announced by Justice of the Peace Lawrence Church, who is mayor of DeValls Bluff.

Church assessed fines of $115 each against Drs. Jackson and Jenkins on charges of drunkenness and disturbing the peace. Hannah was fined $15 on a charge of drunkenness.

Another staff physician, Dr. H. C. Miles, was fined on both counts.

Conviction of Dr. Jackson came after he took the witness stand to testify that neither he nor members of his party were drunk when the fight broke out in the Oasis cafe here Nov. 18.

Dr. Jackson said he had one drink of whisky when he and six other hospital staff members stopped at the cafe after a hunting trip.

The hospital superintendent and Dr. Jenkins were freed Monday on charges of assault to kill in the wounding of Robert Drew, Jr., who with his father operates the cafe.

Justice Church ordered Dr. M. C. Berry of the hospital staff held to the Prairie county grand jury on an assault with intent to kill charge in connection with the stabbing of young Drew.

Rodgers said the first accounts of the shooting led him to believe there was a rape motive, but last night, he explained, he was "convinced revenge was the motive."

He said the trio had been jailed on armed burglary and attempted rape charges involving Harris' wife during a previous attack on the Negro sharecropper's home.

London, Jan. 11.—(UP) Prime Minister Clement Attlee today set Feb. 23 as the date of a general election at which British voters decide if they want five more years of socialism.

Attlee announced the date of the elections in a special statement which said that the present parliament would be dissolved by King George VI on Feb. 3.

Although Conservative leader Winston Churchill is vacationing in the Madeira islands, Conservative party headquarters said "we are ready."

"We look forward to polling day with confidence," said a statement issued by conservative Chairman Lord Woolton.

"But let us not regard this election as just a party contest. The future of our country is at stake and it is time for a change."

The forthcoming election campaign according to observers, promises to be one of the most bitter in British history. The labor government will campaign on its record of social security and nationalization of industry. The Conservatives will attack socialist "waste" and call for a return to free enterprise.

The last general election was held July, 1945, after the war was finished in Europe but before Japan surrendered. The Labor party won an overwhelming landslide victory which surprised Labor party leaders as much as anyone else.

A British general election calls for selection of an entirely new house of commons. Because of reorganization of constituencies there will be election contests this time for 625 seats in parliament compared to 640 in the 1945 election.

Although the present parliament was scheduled to meet again Jan. 22 after a Christmas recess, it will not be called back into session in view of the elections. The newly elected parliament will meet for routine business March 1 and will be formally opened by King George on March 6.

Prime Minister Attlee's present cabinet will remain in power until the day after election, when results will be known. Attlee then will tender his resignation to King George.

Chinese Crisis Shouldn't Overshadow Grave Situation Between Pakistan, India

By DEWITT MacKENZIE,
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

We shouldn't let the Chinese crisis distract attention from another grave situation in the Asiatic theatre, and that is the badly strained relations between Pakistan and India.

These huge neighbors, which only about two and a half years ago received their complete independence from Britain, are at swords point. The position has become so serious that the grim word "war" is being bandied about all too freely for comfort.

There are several reasons for the differences: Economic complications, devaluation of India's currency while Pakistan stood pat, the bitter struggle for possession of the rich state of Kashmir, and the centuries old religious animosities.

A week ago India's Deputy Premier Sardar Vallabhai Patel told an audience of 20,000 that "India does not have a friendly neighbor (meaning Pakistan) and the wounds of the subcontinent's partition are not healed up." Patel was defending his government's expenditure of two-thirds of its revenue on defense and declared that "India will not reduce expenditure until her relations with Pakistan become smooth." At another point he said:

"We have built up our forces so that no nation dare attack us." A day or so later Prime Minister Nehru announced that three weeks earlier he had sent the Pakistan government the draft of a proposed joint declaration banning war and proposing settlement of differences by negotiation. He said Pakistan had asked for this draft after he had proposed such an agreement.

Thus far there has been no announcement of a reply from Pakistan. Friends of peace are keeping their fingers crossed, and hoping against hope that the two countries can bury the hatchet. One great difficulty is that they don't trust each other.

That was of course a terrible pity that the great Indian peninsula had to be partitioned in the first place. The division of the subcontinent into India and Pakistan has produced an economic catastrophe since India does the greater part of the manufacturing and Pakistan, which is largely agricultural, produces much of the essential raw materials. One example will suffice to show what is happening.

Pakistan is the world's largest producer of jute and accounts for 73 percent of the output for the entire peninsula. India has jute mills processing more than 90 percent of the globe's jute. In short, the two nations are dependent on each other in this vital matter of jute.

To add to this jute imbroglio, there is a fierce quarrel over currency values. Some time ago India devalued the rupe while Pakistan refused to follow suit. The result is that India no longer can buy jute from Pakistan excepting at a heavy loss because of the depreciated currency. So India refuses to deal, and the important jute industry is stagnant.

Patel's comment on the devaluation situation is: "We are not fools to pay 144 rupees for 100 rupees and we will not succumb to pressure tactics."

Thus runs the sad story of India-Pakistan relations in virtually all fields of activity. Naturally both countries are suffering previously and the only possible solution is establishment of close economic relations between them.

If that isn't done and done soon the consequences could be disastrous.

himself as he is holding office by appointment, and that he will not seek the office now held by Prosecutor W. H. McClellan.

In Little Rock, the Arkansas Democrat said his announcement led to speculation that he might become a candidate for the Arkansas Supreme court or for congress. The paper added, however, that he is a close friend of the congressman from his district, W. F. Norrell, and would not seek that office if Norrell is a candidate for reelection.

Joe W. McCoy, Malvern attorney, announced yesterday that he will be a candidate for circuit judge of the seventh district composed of Hot Spring, Garland and Saline counties. Judge Danhusser is filling a vacancy caused by the death of Judge Thomas E. Toler.

Oleo Foes Are Split Over Excise Tax

Washington, Jan. 11.—(UPI)—Dairy state senators were split today over bringing excise tax cuts into the spring oleomargarine-vs-butter scrap.

Their ranks cracked when Senators Humphrey (D-Minn) and Magnuson (D-Wash) spurned a move to the repeal of wartime excise taxes to legislation to erase federal oleomargarine taxes.

Unhappy over the breach, Senator Wiley (R-Wis) talked about exploring for some sort of compromise before the issues come to a vote.

Wiley is leading a fight in the senate to ban yellow colored oleomargarine from interstate commerce, although going along with repeal of federal taxes on it.

Yellow margarine is taxed 10 cents a pound; the uncolored product one-quarter cent a pound. Occupational taxes also are levied on manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers.

Wiley's proposal, in the form of a substitute for the house-passed tax repeal bill, is sponsored also by 24 other senators who contend that yellow oleomargarine is a deceptive imitation of butter.

Wiley accepted yesterday as part of his substitute an amendment by Senator Butler (R-Neb) to reduce excise taxes on such items as furs, jewelry, luggage, telephone bills, admissions and transportation tickets by an estimated $625,000,000. This stirred protests from Humphrey and Magnuson, who are among the sponsors of the substitute.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 11 (UP)—Gov. Forrest Smith predicted today a threatened strike of Southwestern Bell Telephone company employees will be settled.

In his weekly letter to the rural press, "Your Governor Reports," he said:

"The threatened street car and St.

Humphrey referred to the attempt to take on excise tax cuts or civil rights riders as a "parliamentary trick" and "beneath the strategy to kill off the oleo."

Magnuson said supporters of the substitute proposal will get more votes if they do not resort to legislative maneuvering by attaching excise cuts or civil rights amendments.

No civil rights amendments have been offered to the bill but supporters persist that some senator may do so.

Little Rock, Jan. 11.—(UPI)—The people who paid for it got their first peek at the new home of Arkansas governors yesterday. The new $197,000 governor's mansion at Eighteenth and Spring streets—heart of one of Little Rock's oldest residential sections—will remain open for public inspection through Sunday.

A recent law requires that all newspapers in the country print the phrase "year of the liberator General San Martin" on their masthead throughout 1950, the 100th anniversary of the general's death.

State policemen—assigned to direct visitors and discourage souvenir hunters—reported more than 300 people passed through the mansion during the first 30 minutes it was open.

Reaction of visitors was varied. One elderly lady thought of the fun that the sons of Gov. and Mrs. Sid McMath will have "sliding down that spiral stairway."

And a truck driver decided "it's some joint, but I wouldn't like to live there—eviction notices come around too fast."

Small mesh bags made from discarded mesh potato or fruit bags were demonstrated. They should be filled with suet and hung from trees for the birds. Mrs. Owen Nix and Mrs. Claude Agee assisted Mrs. Tolleson on the program. Mrs. Arch Moore demonstrated bird feeders made at home and a charming string of crab apples.

The club started two new projects for the year. Each member is to make a thorough study of an individual flower keeping their materials found in a scrap book for use to anyone desiring the information.

The club plans to be distributors for bird feeders in the flower judging contest. Mrs. F. N. Porter won first place for pink perfection camellias grown in her yard. Mrs. Waddle Cunningham

I Love My Doctor

Copyright by Evelyn Barkins
Published by HIA SERVICE, INC.

I had expected to wake up after that very unusual sixth-month celebration feeling like Columbus on the day he docked. Instead of which I got out of bed like a washcloth emerging from a washing machine.

"You look awful," my mother said when she stopped by. "Do you have a fever? Let me feel your head."

"Don't start borrowing trouble. I'm feeling fine," said, trying to sound like a seasoned commando ignoring flesh wound.

"Well, I don't know," she persisted. "I don't like how you look. Why don't you tell John? After all, he is a doctor." Which was exactly why not. Just as in ordinary matters the average physician's medical care for his family makes the delinquent cobbler with his shoeless children seem like a paternal philanthropist, so in case of actual illness his commands are magnified beyond normal proportion.

I remembered one time when we were married about three months, when fell and twisted my ankle. "Now look, John," I protested, when he insisted on an X-ray as usually was as "victorious" in things of this kind as Hitler in his hayday) and he was reassured that there was no break in my bones. John simply forgot the whole matter.

"Aren't you going to tape it up?" I asked, after a long day's limp. "That's what you did to Mrs. Wilson's ankle, and that's what the camp doctor did to me the last time it happened."

John was relaxing as usual, with a medical journal, and while I questioned this type of literature as means of recreation, I dared not say so aloud in view of the Perry Mason corpus and my silences that furnished mine.

"Let it alone," he grunted without even looking up. "It'll heal up. Nothing serious. Just let it alone."

The next day my ankle still bothered me a little, and my wounded feelings a great deal, so I determined on a new course.

Just as the last evening patient was leaving, I sat down in the waiting room, and said when John opened the door: "I'm next."

He looked surprised, but gallantly seized the cue, "Come right in, madame," he said professionally and then, dropping the routine and said "Gosh, I'm tired."

"Not too tired if I were Mrs. Gwendolyn McCarthy!" I buried this out as if it were a grand jury indictment.

DOROTHY DIX Friendless Girl

Dear Miss Dix: I am pretty well-educated, and dress well. I make a good impression on strangers, but I can keep neither men nor girl friends. Why is this?

Answer: The one deal in life we get absolutely what is coming to us in the matter of friendship. People are liked and loved in just the ratio that they deserve it. So, if you are unpopular, see if it isn't your own fault. Are you a cat? Do you claw every girl with whom you come in contact?

Do you rather pride yourself upon speaking the truth to your friends? Don't you feel called upon to tell Peggy that her hat is unbecoming, and Dorothy that she is looking sallow, and Betty that she is getting fat?

Monopolizing Men

And are you the kind of a girl who tries to monopolize every man who can get her clutches on, and who, when rejected, do that introduce her season to another girl?

If you are, what right have you to complain when other girls pay you back in your own coin?

As for your failure to be popular with men, look yourself squarely in the face and see where the trouble lies. Are you one of the snippy girls who always tries to make a man think that she is a sort of fairy princess, and that no matter what he does for her she is condescending to accept it?

If you do, why should the man waste his good money on you any more?

When a man comes to see you, do you beguile the time by being sarcastic and trying to show him how much smarter and wittier you are than he is? If you do, why should he come back again?

Or do you spend the time talking about yourself? Ah, my child, no man worth his salt was ever enough interested in a woman to be willing to listen to the story of her life, or what she thinks she thinks.

It takes work and trouble and self-denial to make oneself popular but it can be done.

Dear Miss Dix: We are old maid and each other's best chance to marry, but our names are so ridiculous that we hesitate to accept. Do you think that we should let them stand in our way and that we will probably never find another opportunity to marry?

M. W. M.

Answer: Certainly not. I am O. K. After all, what's in a name, and won't putting "Miss" before even a homely name help it?

Mrs. Chiang Enroute to Formosa

San Francisco, Jan. 11—(AP)—Nobly clad in black, and sombered after 13 months of futile effort to enlist new aid for her son, Madame Chiang Kai-shek is on her way back to China.

She left San Francisco about midnight (3 a.m. EST) on the American World Airways

Constitution, still predicting ultimate victory for her husband.

The Constitution will arrive in Manila Friday morning where Madame Chiang and her escorts will transfer to another plane for Formosa. She was accompanied by W. Yu, her secretary, and Yu Tsung-chi, Chinese nationalist ambassador.

Madame Chiang arrived here yesterday after a "rough" flight over the Rockies from Chicago. She was welcomed by U. S. army officials, including Lieut. Gen. Alvan C. Wedemeyer, Sixth Army commander.

She handed newsmen a prepared statement, saying: "The American people do not know the truth. They have been deceived by propaganda beyond anything ever set before a nation."

"When the American people know the truth through their democratic press and radio know that they have been deceived and that the communist peril is as great for them as for China, righteous wrath will sweep away these concepts,"

Earlier she said China would never be a puppet of the Soviet Empire. She declared:

"Slowly, step by step, we shall wipe out the red ink of the map makers."

Another Mixed Marriage in New York

New York, Jan. 11—(AP)—Billy Daniels, Negro nightclub singer, and Martha Braun, white actress and only daughter of a wealthy Lowell, Mass., family were on a Caribbean honeymoon cruise to—

They were married Monday by Judge A. Leiberman in Weehawken, N. J. A reception followed at the Park Avenue restaurant, in Manhattan, where Daniels has been appearing.

Weehawken Township Clerk Leo Carroll said Daniels gave his race as "Negro" and his age as 34 on the marriage license application.

His first wife died four years ago. He met Martha more than two years ago.

The bride, 21, is the daughter of Carl Braun, Sr., who knew of her engagement to Daniels but had offered her a round-the-world trip to think it over.

The New York Daily Mirror said Mrs. Braun, in Lowell, told the paper Martha advised her parents several weeks ago that she was engaged and had them come to New York to meet her fiance.

"We met Mr. Daniels," the Mirror quoted the mother as having said, "and then I asked Martha to return home with us to think things over carefully before taking such a big step."

She came home for a month and I suggested she take a trip around the world to make certain this was really love, and what she wanted." Last Saturday night, when we returned home, we found she had packed and left for New York. She called Monday afternoon to say she had the wedding.

"While this wasn't what we had planned for our daughter, it is her life. If love is stronger than family influence, we can't stand in her way."

Martha is a graduate of Belvidere and Rogers Hall, exclusive private schools in Lowell, and later trained as a model in Boston at Academic Moderne.

Dog That Bit Postman Now Serving Sentence

Dallas, Jan. 11 (AP)—Kaiser, a mongrel dog which bit a Dallas postman last Dec. 12, began serving a life sentence today.

Crazed Man Kills Woman and Officer

Mendon, Mass., Jan. 11—(UPI)—A drink-crazed gunman killed a police chief and a young woman patron early today in a wild gun battle during a holdup at the Red Rooster cafe.

Three other persons including the gunman were wounded.

The robber held victim of the holdup at bay for nearly three hours before the burst of gunfire that killed Mendon Police Chief Matthew Mantoni, 39, father of four children, and Miss Katherine Brady, 22, of Uxbridge.

Wounded during the brief but fierce struggle in the nightspot were the bandit, Harold Ward, 32, of Mendon, Lawrence Griffin, 22, of West Upton, a patron and Miss Josephine Pitas, 24, of Mendon, a waitress.

Charged with murder and closely guarded at a hospital, Ward al-

Doctor Faces Grand Jury in Stabbing

By JIM THOMASSON

DeValls Bluff, Jan. 10 (AP) — A state hospital physician today faced grand jury action on a charge that he stabbed a cafe operator during an argument over serving mixers for liquid drinker.

Dr. M. C. Berry was bound over to the Prairie county grand jury by Justice of the Peace Lawrence Church at a preliminary hearing here yesterday. He is charged with assault with intent to kill in connection with the stabbing of Robert Drew, Jr., 23, at the Oasis cafe here last Nov. 18.

Similar charges against Dr. George W. Jackson, state hospital superintendent, and Dr. W. G. Jenkins were dismissed, but Prosecutor J. B. Reed said the grand jury may investigate their status as accessories. He commented that "it is a tight question of law."

Seven members of the state hospital staff, returning from a duck hunt, were in the party at the cafe when young Drew was stabbed. Drs. Jackson and Jenkins and Dr. H. C. Miles and J. D. Hannan also are charged with drunkenness and disturbing the peace in connection with the incident.

Immediately after the preliminary hearing for the three doctors on the assault to kill charges, Church began trial of the other men on the drunkenness and disturbing the peace charges. It was recessed shortly before midnight last night until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Highly conflicting testimony was given at the lengthy hearing yesterday, and two officers said that Dr. Jenkins offered them "hush-money."

State Patrolman L. W. Gwyn reported that while he was investigating the trouble, Dr. Jenkins said "if it's hush money you want, I'll give you $1,000." He added that Dr. Jackson immediately told him, "he doesn't mean that, he doesn't know what he's saying."

Trooper Gwyn said it sounded to him like "drunken talk," and added that about two hours after the stabbing, Dr. Jenkins was the only one of the party he considered drunk.

Deputy Sheriff H. L. Forester, DeValls Bluff, also testified about the "hush money" offering, but said he did not hear Dr. Jackson say anything about it. He and Hazen Police Chief Joe Harper, also a deputy sheriff, said in their opinion all the men were drunk.

Young Drew and his father, Robert L. Drew, Sr., testified that the hospital employees were loud and profane when they entered the place; and became angry because the Drews would not serve them ice and ordered them to stop drinking whiskey in the place.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mashburn, England, and party of two other couples, who were in the cafe when the hospital employees entered, said the men were not unduly loud, were not profane and were not drunk. The England party left a short while before the trouble in which Drew was stabbed.

Alaskan Storm Makes Way to West Coast

By The Associated Press

An Alaskan-born storm whistled through the peaks of the Siskiyou mountain in California today, bringing rain, snow and high winds to the coast.

In middle America rescue workers sloshed through mud to plug leaking dikes along rampaging rivers.

The blast that hit northern California was termed a "virtual blitz."

Highway patrolmen closed highway 99 south of Dunsmuir in the snow-stuck Mt. Shasta area. A bus driver told of fighting seven hours to inch his vehicle from Dunsmuir to Weed — just 18 miles.

Between California and Nevada in historic Donner pass, snow slashed through the notch in the Sierras at from 30 to 40 miles per hour. Weathermen class its speed as a "moderate gale," but its force will sway a whole tree.

In Southern California, more rain is expected tonight which may end a cold snap that followed week end rains. Ice covered Los Angeles county roads yesterday.

In the Indiana-Illinois flood area, more rain dropped down on the waterlogged floodlands. Emergency squads sweated on in their rescue work.

Strong winds persisted throughout most of the flood region, creating a new hazard. Weather bureau officials said the high winds would make "heavy seas" of water in the lowlands. But temperatures were mild, bringing a measure of relief to the hundreds of persons who have been forced to flee from their homes.

Damages to crops and property mounted as waters spilled over thousands of acres of rich farmlands. The critical situation at Vincennes, Ind., appeared some what eased as the rain-swollen Wabash river receded slowly during the night. Army engineers directing sandbag operations on the weakened levees for two days, expressed the belief the worst of the flood was over.

Masquerade of Witness 'Startling'

Wednesday, January 11
San Francisco, Jan. 10 (P)—The 30-year masquerade of a major government witness was up for further examination in the Harry Bridges trial today.

Bridges' lawyers yesterday compelled ex-communist Editor Lawrence Seton Ross to admit he lied about his name, his origin and his schooling. He said it had been his own secret for 30 years — even his wife didn't know the truth.

In a statement admittedly forced by defense questioning, Ross ad-mited his legal name was not Ross, he was not born in Kentucky, was not the son of a Kentucky truck driver and was not schooled in Kentucky. This reversed his previous testimony as to his own identity.

His real name, he said, is Rossette. He was born in West Poland, his parents are a New York garment worker. He and other members of his family followed his father to New York from Poland in 1910. He was schooled in New York City.

Ross, 44-year-old managing editor of the Cotton Trade Journal at Memphis, Tenn., has testified he knew Bridges in the mid-thirties as a fellow Communist. He said Bridges was elected to the party's national central committee in 1936. He stuck by these statements under re-enforced cross-examination after he re-identified himself.

Bridges, Australian-born leader of the CIO longshoremen's union, is charged with perjury for testifying at his 1945 naturalization hearing that he had never been a Communist. Two fellow officers of the union are charged with conspiracy to commit perjury. The government attorney, Henry Schmidt, and R. Robertson, who testified for Bridges at the citizenship hearing, are Defense counsel indicated they would ask that Ross be held for perjury. The government attorney answered that Ross did not commit perjury because his lies were not upon a material matter. Ross said he told his "white lies" on the witness stand to protect his marriage and his standing as a respectable citizen of Memphis.

In Memphis, his boss, Editor-Publisher Francis G. Hickman of the Cotton Trade Journal, said: "We are all behind Seton Ross and he will continue indefinitely as managing editor of this publication."

Bergman Divorce Agreement Seems to Be Near

Hollywood, Jan. 10 — Attorneys for Ingrid Bergman and her husband have worked out "a basis for what we feel is a fair and equitable property settlement."

The actress' lawyer, Greg Bautzer, made this statement yesterday upon returning from a New York conference with Lawrence Brinn, attorney for Dr. Peter Lindstrom, Miss Bergman's husband.

However, Bautzer added that until the proposed settlement is approved by Dr. Lindstrom and Miss Bergman, "no agreement has been reached."

If approved, a property settlement is said to be the first legal step toward a divorce. Dr. Lindstrom, who is here, has refused to comment about his wife's plans to marry Roberto Rossellini, Italian film director. The actress is in Italy.

Fair Enough

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—It was still a bright world today for Lucky, the roulette-playing horse.

Lucky won $30 for his 24-year-old mistress, blonde Susan Wallace, in their Tuesday session at Reno's Cal-Neva club. This earned him a promise of an extra helping of oats and hay.

The horsey system is simple. Miss Wallace hands Lucky silver dollars which he drops from his mouth upon the numbers of his choice. She plays his hunches. So far the system has worked.

Miss Wallace's avowed aim is getting publicity for an eccentric night club.

Both Susan and the Cal-Neva club seemed pleased with the publicity they were getting. She thinks it will land her a good-paying singing job. And Cal-Neva was happy that it was the only club horseabouts willing to accept bets right from the horse's mouth.

Legion Plays Tonight; Cats Lick Nashville

The Hope Bobcats downed the Nashville Scappers on their own court 44 to 41 in one of the roughest games of the season in which fouls were committed by the two teams.

It was a nip and tuck affair. Hope led by Weslie Huddleston with 18 points followed by James Johnson and Edsel Nix with 9 each. Philip Watson of Nashville led his team with 12 followed by Donald Yates with 11 tallies.

The Hope Senior girls didn't fare so well losing to Nashville 28 to 17. Ponder of Nashville made 16 points. Sue Green made 8 for Hope and Patsy Hughes made 4.

Tonight on the local court the Legionaires will entertain a team of independents from Magnolia A & M college at Magnolia in what should prove to be a good contest.

Hogan, Snead Enter Golf Playoff

Los Angeles, Jan. 11.—(AP) Ben Hogan, game but tired in his amazing golf comeback, tees off today (3:30 p.m. EST) against Sam Snead, who admits he's sharp, in the playoff for the top prize of the $15,000 Los Angeles open.

Win or lose, Hogan will have engineered one of the great comebacks in golf history.

The 18-hole event may be played in the rain. The weather bureau says it certainly will be gusty with showers.

Hogan, who's won a lot of them, had his finest triumph in his grasp for 44 miles yesterday. He posted 280, four under par, and went in to shower confident that his first tournament bid since his auto accident was a success.

Hogan was drying off when the first hint came. By then Snead had two holes to play and had to have two birdies. But birdie he did, with a 10-foot putt.

Eighteen is one of the toughest holes on Riviera trapped and hilly course. It's a slight dog-leg of 455 yards, but par four.

Snead wound up 15 feet from the pin on his second shot. A gallery of 10,500 was hushed as he carefully sized up the shot, then played the roll perfectly and hit the cup dead aim for a birdie three to tie Hogan's 280.

The crowd, pro-Hogan all the way, roared as the ball dropped in. It was a windup as sensational as any major tournament has ever seen.

U. S. Naval Academy Has New Coach

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 11.—(AP) Eddie Erdelatz, a veteran gridiron tutor at 36, is the new head football coach at the U. S. Naval academy.

His acceptance of a four-year contract at undisclosed terms was announced today by Capt. Howard E. Caldwell, navy director of athletics.

Erdelatz, who for the past two years has been coaching ends for the professional San Francisco 49ers, will be permitted to select his own assistant coaches and they also will get four-year contracts.

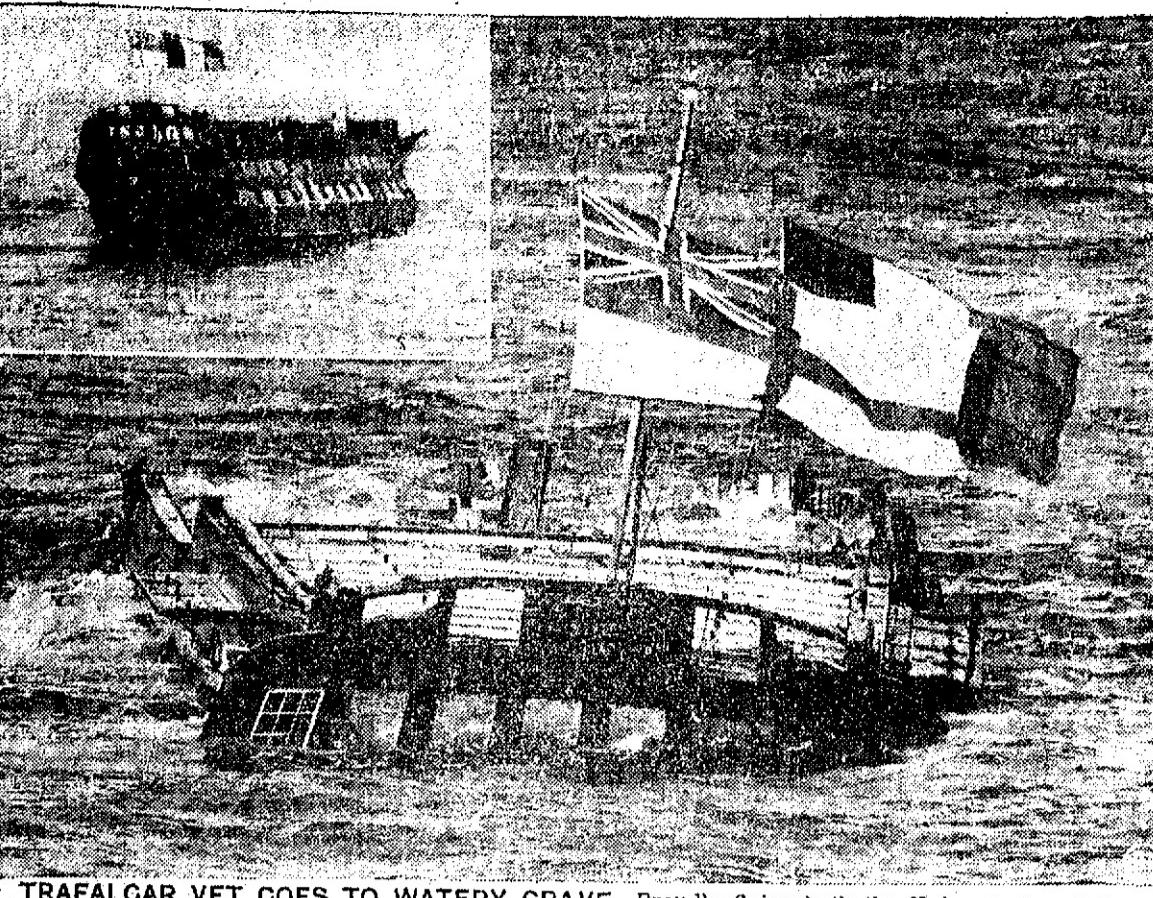

But last night President John A. Hannah of Michigan State on the same league with Iowa told Philadelphia's Maxwell club: "I have seen no evidence that by abandoning intercollegiate athletics, a college or university has improved either its quality or its reputation as a center of learning."

Hospital Job

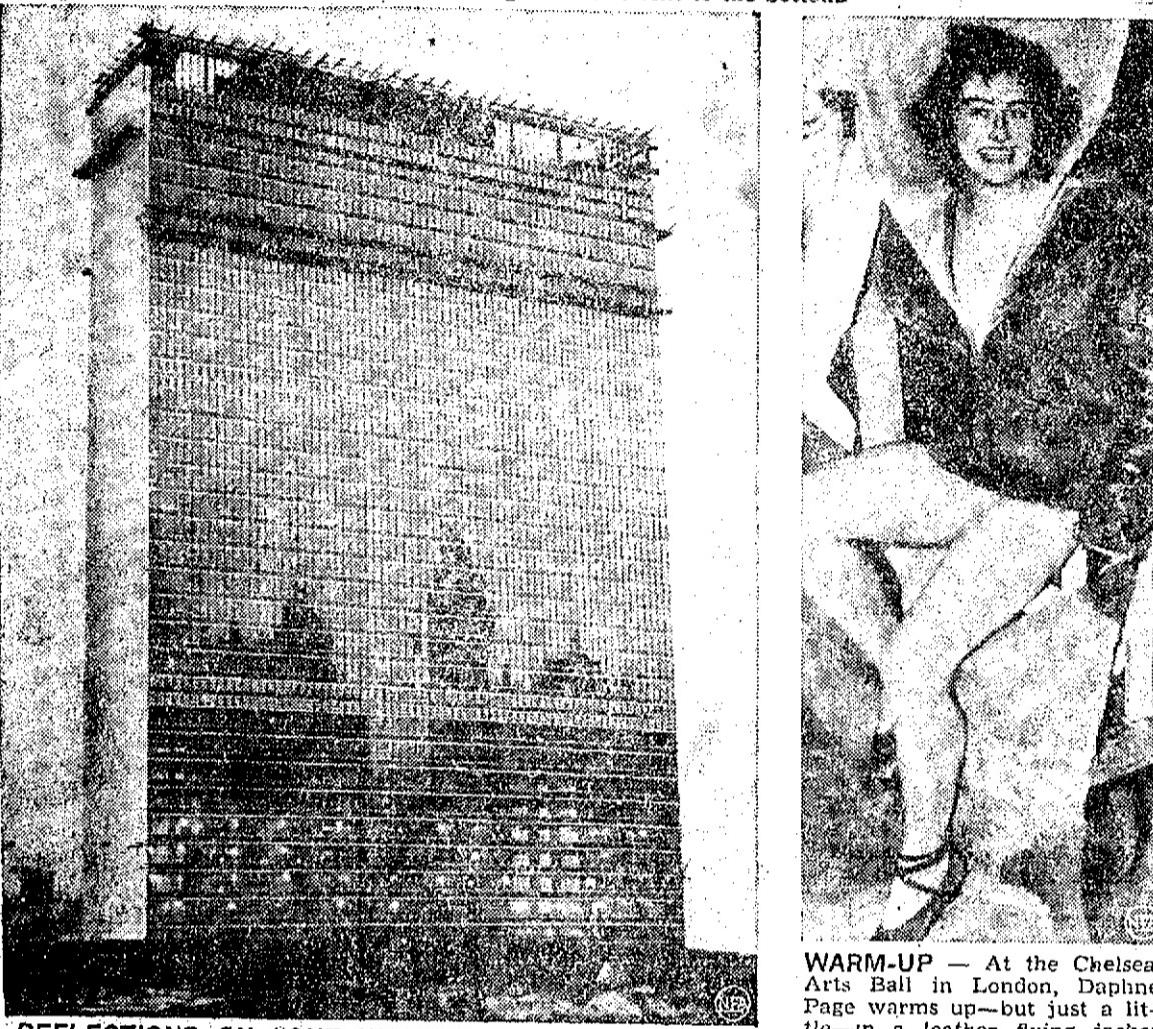

During the Oklahoma-Missouri basketball game the other night, Oklahoma's Paul Merleham, already limping from a charley horse, was accidentally butted over his eye. Still in uniform and bleeding from a bad cut, Merleham drove his own car to the infirmary two blocks away, submitted to an eight-stitch embroidery job and returned to the gym.

Re-entering with less than two minutes to go, Paul passed for the deciding goal then directed a deep freeze for the remaining time.

Shorts And Shells
New York U. undecided about its athletic policy and its football coach is reported talking to Ken Strong about the job. Or is it vice versa? Frank Scott, the Yankees' road secretary who once was dubbed as All America foot-ball manager at Pitt, has named TRAFAELGAR VET GOES TO WATERY GRAVE—Proudly flying both the Union Jack and the French Tricolor, the 152-year-old wooden warship Impetueux goes down in the sea off Isle of Wight, England, after being scuttled by the British Navy. Inset shows the old ship being towed to her burial site. One of two ships surviving the famous battle of Trafalgar, the Impetueux was captured from the French by the English. Naval leaders of both countries attended the ceremony in which the rotting relic was sent to the bottom.

WARM-UP — At the Chelsea Arts Ball in London, Daphne Page warms up—but just a little—in a leather flying jacket before going on. Daphne was one of the twin princesses driving the "Weather House," and the weather was a trifle nippy.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

New York, Jan. 11.—(AP) Figure this out if you can. The NCAA sanity code argument, getting hot every day, looks to be mainly large college debate. But any action is taken by the little colleges probably will decide what it is to be.

The simple fact is there are more of them and each one has a vote. The first formal discussion of the code is scheduled for the small college round-table discussion Friday.

This is "to acquaint the small college representatives with a problem which doesn't directly concern them." It looks like a perfect spot to dish up some propaganda. The same guy insists he doesn't expect the voting, if any to follow, sectional or political lines. But it's natural for the small schools to follow the lead of their big neighbors. And it's a cinch most of the small college representation will come from the thickly-populated East and Midwest. That's a simple matter of railroad fares.

Two Teams Toppled From Unbeaten List

New York, Jan. 11.—(AP) Cincinnati and Auburn were toppled from the unbeaten ranks, but it was Tufts which provided last night's surprise in college basketball.

his new son John Bain Scott after Doc Sutherland, of course. Tip from the South, almost before Bob Woodruff had hopped to Florida, was the Southern Coop of Louisiana State had offered the Bayou coaching post. Clair Bee deftly need his old friend and rival, Eddie Hickory of St. Louis, to remark: "Last year they boasted all their players came from St. Louis and its suburbs. This year I see the suburbs have been extended to include Indiana, Wisconsin and a few places like that."

The Frogs had lost both previous starts but took their home opener by holding the Mustangs scoreless for six minutes early in the sec and half while counting 14 points. The surge overcame a 5 point lead SMU had gained immediately after intermission. TCU held a 32-30 advantage at half time.

George McLeod, giant sophomore center and Gene Schmidt, wiry senior forward with 18 and 17 points respectively paced the Frogs to their upset victory.

McLeod set a blazing pace in the second half when TCU switched to a fast break. McLeod scored 14 of his points in the first half.

Fred Freeman hit eight field goals for the losers.

Today a year ago Kentucky trailing by one point at halftime trailed to win Bowling Green, 63-61.

Instead of going to the top, the carbon and rubber shop he operated in Manhattan, he returned home for some unexplained reason. There he encountered one or more intruders, and met death with his wife.

The Leyras' son, Camilo, Jr., 59, of North Bergen, N. J., became worried when his father failed to appear at his shop. The son and two associates went to the Brooklyn apartment and found the bodies.
